Re: Extension of Paper Bid for 2018-2019 School Year

Dear Audrey:

After some serious thought and consideration P&R Paper has determined we will have to pass along the increases we accrued throughout 2017 and will be accruing throughout 2018 due to escalating raw materials and other manufacturing costs. The Chinese government has instituted a variety of environmental protection policies that have an adverse effect on many disposable, foodservice items' production by limiting the pollution emissions. Many of our manufactures have partnered with production facilities that are on the fore-front of making appropriate changes to comply with new standards; however this has caused cost increases in raw materials, labor, and transportation. Hurricane Harvey and Irma have also affected many of our manufactures also causing cost increases in raw materials, labor, and transportation. Recently President Trump raised the tariffs on foil so the cost of foil has gone up by 30%.

We tried not to pass on all of the increases we have received from the manufactures but there were some we could not avoid.

We value our partnership with Perris UHSD and hope you can understand why we would need to pass these increases on during these trying times.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Colleen Curran
